1. It is becoming increasingly evident that American dependence on foreign oil, especially oil from countries that support and/or export radical Islamic ideology and terrorism, provides a considerable economic stimulus to the oil sector, at least in the following primary oil-dependent sectors:

- a. The economic stimulus provided by the oil industry since 2001 has been substantial, but neither the oil industry nor the transportation industry has proposed any measures to reduce dependence on foreign oil. The oil industry has received substantial government sponsorship which has led to the development of flex-fuel vehicles warranted to operate on gasoline, ethanol, and methanol, or be warranted to operate on biodiesel.
