1. It is becoming increasingly evident that American dependence on foreign oil, especially oil from countries that support and/or export radical Islamic ideology and terrorism, provides a considerable portion of the transportation sector, at least in the following petroleum products: gasoline, diesel, and jet fuel. This dependence has been a major factor in the rise of terrorism, and neither the current administration nor the previous administration have taken any steps to reduce our dependence on foreign oil. We oppose each of the following proposals to reduce our dependence on foreign oil:

REFUSED

a. The current administration's proposal to allow the use of ethanol in gasoline, and starting in 2012, to allow the use of methanol in gasoline, and to allow the use of biodiesel in diesel engines. This proposal is a step in the right direction, but it is not enough. We support the current administration's proposal to allow the use of ethanol in gasoline, and starting in 2012, to allow the use of methanol in gasoline, and to allow the use of biodiesel in diesel engines. We oppose the current administration's proposal to allow the use of ethanol in gasoline, and starting in 2012, to allow the use of methanol in gasoline, and to allow the use of biodiesel in diesel engines. We are undecided on the current administration's proposal to allow the use of ethanol in gasoline, and starting in 2012, to allow the use of methanol in gasoline, and to allow the use of biodiesel in diesel engines.
