1. It is becoming increasingly evident that American dependence on foreign oil, especially oil from countries that support and/or export radical Islamic ideology and terrorism, provides a considerable portion of the transportation sector, at least in the following petroleum products: gasoline, diesel, and jet fuel. This dependence has been a major factor in the rise of oil prices, but neither the current administration nor the previous administration have proposed any measures to reduce our dependence on foreign oil.

REFUSED

a. The Energy Independence and Security Act of 2007 requires that 15% of the vehicles warranted to operate on gasoline, ethanol, and methanol, or be warranted to operate on biodiesel, be flex-fuel vehicles. The current administration has proposed to reduce this requirement to 10%.
